When making Post-Secondary Educational Choices please consider the following important information about public schools and our HHA, Phlebotomy and EKG programs:

- Not all schools are created equal
- Government schools in the US are – in most cases – as good or better than private schools
- Private schools are more expensive than Government schools
- Private schools encourage borrowing money to pay for the programs
- Student loans have to be repaid after graduation with interest
- Private schools have lower entrance requirements
- Private schools offer programs with a shorter timeframe to complete
- Remember when looking for employment after completing your educational programs – Employers KNOW which schools are the best
